

China's uneven growth:

Exports surge as consumption falters

Weekly Facts & Figures.

- GDP growth: China reached around 5% GDP growth in 2025, narrowly meeting its official target.
- Exports vs. consumption: Strong export growth contrasted with weak and deteriorating domestic consumption.
- Policy shift: Beijing is pivoting toward boosting household consumption as trade uncertainties persist.

What This Means.

"China's growth in 2025 was a tale of two economies: one thriving on exports, the other struggling at consumption. The next chapter must focus on restoring consumer confidence."

Bowen Han
Senior Consultant

Start the conversation.

bowen.han@sinolytics.de

sinolytics.de